The late rains stopped all plowing up the valley for the time being

John Rolland late of Salem, died at Walla Walla the 4th inst

The exhibition by the deaf mute school at Salem has been postponed until next Monday

Several merchants of Salem have gone to San Francisco to purchase their spring stocks

The reports of the meetings of Farmers Clubs occupy a great deal of space in our valley exchanges

H H Phillips of Jacksonville will take a lot of horses among them some fine breed mares to Idaho this coming Spring

Rev Dr Dawne of the M E Church South, at Salem was presented with a beautifully bound copy of the Holy Bible by his friends on last Monday evening

We are informed that the late freshet has washed away a number of bridges on small streams up the valley, and that when a man starts to any given point, he don't know whether he will reach it or not

Mr Dufur is meeting with considerable encouragement in placing the matter of the Centennial Exhibition before the people up the valley He will lecture at Eugene this (Thursday) evening and Saturday night at Roseburg

The Board of School Land Commissioners hold their regular monthly meeting Tuesday, but transacted but very little business of public interest The hearing of the case of Hieck vs the administrator of the Jones estate Jackson county was postponed for two months

The farmers of North Salem precinct will hold a meeting next Saturday afternoon at the North Salem school house, for the purpose of organizing a precinct club, and to elect delegates to the county convent on to be held at the time recommended by the Farmers' Convention at Salem held last January

The *States*an of Wednesday say The Fannie Patton came down yesterday with only a small cargo of produce, about five tons of eggs lard cheese, etc She takes from here nine tons flour and eleven tons chops The river was rising slowly yesterday at Corvallis The Santiam was 3 feet in the time came down The Willamette at this point was low water mark and rising briskly The banks are very near full

A letter just received from Samuel J Newbern, on Crooked river in Wasco county, of a late date represents stock as doing first rate out there Winter mild and seasonable and health good He and another stock raiser out there will drive into the valley this spring about 150 head of fat beeves for the home market Sheep in those boundless grassy plains are doing well The wool clip for this State this spring will be large, and will materially help to soften our hard times

The *States*an has the following runaway item A team belonging to a Mr Dougherty, of French Prairie, left standing on Liberty street near Murphy's residence, became frightened, and started off down the street at a fearful pace As they crossed Mill Creek bridge a man on horseback attempted to head them off and stop them but the team paid no attention to him On the contrary, they run into him, knocked both him and the horse down, rolling in the mud, and went on kicking They passed through North Salem barely escaping trees, fence corners, etc and finally turned to the left, running down toward the river Just before reaching the bank of the Wallamet, they run the pole of the wagon against a tree or stump, which cleared them from the wagon and both horses went in a pile over the bank and into the river A man who was near, seeing the catastrophe jumped in with a knife to cut the horses loose from the tangle of the harness and succeeded in extricating one of them the other was drowned and sank immediately after being cut loose The team was a very valuable one

THE HANDWRITING ON THE WALL —There is a gentleman still in this city we believe says the Milwaukee Sentinel who is a splendid hand at sketching, and who during the war of the rebellion had drawn most admirably on the wall of his store a negro's head and underneath it had written Dis Union forever Whether the sentence meant loyalty to the Union or not was the puzzling question which the gentleman himself never answered, invariably stating to the inquirer Read it for yourselves, gentlemen So from that day to this as the saying goes "no one knows how dat darkey stood on de war question

Still another question is now puzzling several of the young ladies who attend the Female College It seems that one of them discovered that some one had written on the outer wall of the College, "Young women should set good examples, for young men will follow them" The question that is now puzzling the heads of several of the young ladies of the college is, whether the writer meant what he or she (the handwriting was rather masculine) wrote, in a moral sense or in an ironical one

SPEED ON ENGLISH RAILWAYS —Some interesting details concerning the speed of railway trains in England have recently been published The average rate of speed at which the quickest express trains travel is 43½ miles an hour But there are two lines on which this pace is exceeded The 10 o'clock train on the Great Northern road reaches Peterborough at 11 30, the distance is 76¼ miles and the pace 51 miles an hour The 11 45 train on the Great Western makes the run to Swindon 77¼ miles without stopping, and does it in 1 hour and 27 minutes or at the rate of 53¼ miles an hour There are a number of other roads which make runs at the rate of from 45 to 52 miles an hour but the journey from London to Bath by the 11 45 train is the quickest in the world The distance is 107 miles and it is done in 2 hours and 13 minutes including a stoppage of 10 minutes at Swindon The actual time in traveling is 2 hours and 3 minutes something over 52 miles an hour

The presence of mind of some men is remarkable Now there is that man who dined at the Atlantic Hotel recently He mistook the horse radish for some other toothsome dish and plunged into it with an avidity cheerful to behold After having appropriated a spoonful to his own use he suddenly paused and seemed to be deliberating profoundly upon some subject or other Then he gave a snort and remarked in a sort of intense manner Blaze, darn you Few men would have had the presence of mind to make that speech

A cable dispatch of the 7th inst mentions an incident illustrative of the peculiar sensitiveness of Mr Gladstone's Cabinet

The Government having issued orders a posse of police proceeded to the Covent Garden Theater in this city and prevented the evening performance The bill was crowded by policemen and no one was allowed to enter the building The reason for this action of the Government was the rendition of a burlesque imitation of the English Cabinet This action on the part of the authorities creates considerable comment

A man with several marriageable daughters all under twenty three years of age, having bought a house in a fashionable quarter writes to be informed concerning the best way of gaining entrance into the best families in the neighborhood The easiest and most direct way would seem to be by the front door but he might tunnel under the sidewalk and come up through the cellar.

THE TERRITORIES

The city election in Kalama will take place on the 7th prox

H B Starr has been appointed Deputy Marshal for Kalama

Robbins Encampment of Red Cross Champions at Boise City has 18 members

A Sunday school has been organized at Boise City with a full corps of teachers and seventy-three scholars

The "big side" on the N P Railroad track between Kalama and Tenino is being very successfully ground sluiced

Burglars have given the people a great deal of trouble in several of the towns of Montana during the past winter The last number of the Helena Herald contains numerous accounts of house breakings, thefts, etc

We observe by a notice in an Eastern paper, that an election of Directors of the N P R R Company was to take place at their office in New York, on Wednesday, March 12th, inst. Following the election, most probably will be the development of a programme for this year's progress on different divisions of the line

By the following from the Idaho City World, there is every basis to expect a heavy June freshet in the Columbia "On the flat of Lake creek, near town, the snow lies to a depth thirty eight inches while on Deer and Pine creeks we learn that it is over five feet There is more snow around Idaho City now than there was at this time last winter, and we therefore infer that it is also deeper on the mountains"

The Montana Herald of the 15th ult has the following "From gentlemen just in from Blackfoot we learn some further particulars relative to the killing of John Quinn by Jim McAttrison, in Nevada Valley, west side The preliminary examination of McAttrison was to have taken place before Justice Quigley at Blackfoot, on the 13th, and District Attorney J C Robinson came up from Deer Lodge to prosecute in behalf of the Territory McAttrison, through his counsel, said he would waive an examination provided he would be admitted to bail in the sum of $1,000 to appear at the next term of the District Court This proposition was accepted by the District Attorney, much to the indignation of the people and bonds were submitted to Deputy Sheriff Warren Satisfactory sureties however had not been offered to Warren up to the time our informant left It appears that when McAttrison gave himself up he stated that he met Quinn on the prairie, when the latter told McAttrison to defend himself, Quinn at the same time attempting to draw his revolver, when McAttrison fired his shotgun killing him instantly Those who first found Quinn inform that he was lying dead less than 100 yards from McAttrison's house and had no weapon of any description upon his person—not even a pocket knife The shot which McAttrison said his gun was loaded with were extracted from the body by Dr Mitchell, and found to be navy revolver balls These facts being generally believed by the people in and surrounding Blackfoot, they were highly incensed at the lawlessness of the proceeding, saying the accused merited no less sane while his counsel considered him insane. A Medical Commission will probably consider the question of Blakeley's sanity Counsel for Nixon said the plea of insanity would not be raised in his case

GENERAL NOTES

A Western paper says that Anna Dickinson received the price of three thousand glasses of lager for a single lecture

The Paris Liberte has discovered a suicide club. Whoever draws the almond from the cake, at the annual spread, is the victim

The Shah of Persia has conferred upon Carl Siemens the order of the Lion and Sun for his efficient arrangement of the telegraph system of that country.

A St Paul washerwoman, attending church, offered to call it square if the deacon who passed around the contribution box would put in the amount of his bill.

Marquette, Michigan was out of chewing tobacco for several days last week, and, it is said, the town on the third day looked as if the cholera had passed through it

A Nashville reporter is said to have such large hands that he wears no jewelry here below, but expects, when he gets to Heaven to be allowed to wear one of Saturn's rings as a compensation

As the Philadelphia courts have decided that steam whistles must not be blown within the corporation limits, some of the workshops are putting in gongs that can be heard two miles, thus renewing the nuisance

In the introduction of postal cards we are behind England, Germany Switzerland, Belgium, Holland, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Russia Spain Portugal and Greece, and ahead of the Modoes —Hartford Post

The Italian Opera House at Paris has not been opened and the names of MM Lemaire and Verger the directors are now down in the list of bankrupts In their short season last year the loss was over 97 000 francs

Lieutenant Luller, the Communist, who is now on his way to the convict settlement of New Caledonia used to be a renowned duelist Even M Paul de Cassagnac was deterred by his reputation from accepting a challenge from him

A little boy asked Dr Burgess, the preacher if he would have a light "No, my child," said the Doctor, "I am one of the lights of the world" "I wish then," replied the boy, "you were hung at the end of the alley, for it is a very dark one"

The Brunswick Telegraph tells a story of a young widow down on the Kennebec, who said to an acquaintance who was condoling with her upon the recent death of her husband "I hope you'll excuse my not crying, but the fact is crying always makes my nose bleed"

By order of the prefect of police in Paris, large tablets comprising the elementary precepts of aid to be given to the sick and wounded, are to be suspended in all the police stations in the city in order to avoid errors in confounding the insensibility of apoplexy, &c, with that of drunkenness and to prevent mistakes in immediate proceedings before the doctor can arrive

Henry Clay once accused John Randolph of being an aristocrat In a voice whose shrill, piercing tones penetrated every ear in the House, Randolph exclaimed, "If a man is known by the company he keeps the gentleman who has just sat down is more of an aristocrat than I claim to be for he spends most of his nights in the company of kings and queens and knaves"

The Philadelphia Press makes this remark Newspapers already give the theaters far more for their money than any other class of their patrons The criticisms written in the interest of art and of the people must revert to the benefit specially of the theater These are always gratuitous and though given by no agreement with the managers, are by these gentlemen looked upon as their right"

It is related that when Prince Lunalilo was an infant and was about to be baptized, the Rev. Mr Bingham the well known pioneer missionary, who was to perform the ceremony asked "What shall we call the child? The father replied "William Charles Kanaaina" "No," said the mother the Chiefess Kekaaluohi, "he is the highest chief in all the islands therefore his name shall be Lunalilo!" (above all)

GAS METERS—A COMMON BELIEF —If there is one thing more than another in which we have little or no faith at all it is as to the correctness of gas meters The principle may be a good one (good for the gas companies) but like white men, that are "very uncertain" A journal open before us, the American Manufacturer published at Pittsburg, Pa has some rather startling exposures relative to the humbug played upon the consumers, not unfrequently by these little machines It is bad enough to pay an exorbitant price for illuminating gas, and to be supplied with a very poor article, but to be cheated in the measurement and to be overcharged for the miserable stuff as to the quantity supplied, is aggravating to the last degree —Boston Globe.

The Spanish Republic in Trouble.

The Spanish Republic does not appear to be the most healthy of Governments. It seems, indeed, to be already in the throes of dissolution. Of course, we Americans are always in favor of anything bearing the name of a republic that may spring up where a monarchy has tumbled down, and were therefore expected to extend a most cordial greeting to the Republic of Spain. This we made haste to do, preceding the neighboring European powers, even anticipating republican France. Our congratulations might have been considered a proper apology for an undue interest therefore manifested at Washington about the fact that Spain had seen fit to tolerate in Cuba an institution which it is not the American mode to like just now, albeit for a great many years it was the "corner stone of American politics." If this is what was meant by the hasty recognition of the Spanish Republic, it was really a very proper thing to be done, though it might be suggested that if the apology had come before the legitimate Spanish government ceased to be, it would have been more graceful.

We apprehend very few Americans have any faith in the capability of the Spanish people to maintain a republican government. There are many able men in Spain as there are in every civilized nation, but it requires more than this to qualify a people for popular government. There is a training of the mind to republican ideas, which even educated persons do not get in their service of the personal governments of continental Europe, but which would seem to be essential to the stability of free institutions. In Spain less than almost any other State of Europe, we look for this qualification. The day of her redemption has not come yet. It may be difficult to settle affairs there, into a monarchy, because of the plotting and counter-plotting of the various candidates for the throne. Anarchy may prevail while one struggle after another is being made for the succession. This chance, however, is to be taken, and there would be far greater probability of the restoration of order within a reasonable period in this direction than there can be in the attempt to build up a republic out of Spanish material.

A New York dispatch says:

A number of gentlemen held a meeting last evening in Dr. Adams' Madison Square Church and took preliminaries for organizing an association to be known as the "Humane Society." General Alexander Webb, Theo. W. Dwight, Geo. B. McClellan and Parke Godwin are, among the organizing committee.

That is good. This "Humane Society" is just what the world has been waiting for these centuries agone—waiting in suppressed agony. We are glad that Webb, McClellan, et al. have undertaken this job. We shall now expect the speedy return of the Golden Age—which means, in part, a resumption of specie payments. The humanizing influence of such a society ought to reinstate the lost arts of public virtue and private honesty. If any man shall suppose that we speak derisively of this divine quartette, let him be undeceived. The "Humane Society" must work patiently, and through cycles. They will begin their humane work on the murderers of New York. They will clear the jails—be it by the gallows or by pardon. Tammanies will be known no more forever. Credit Mobilier will be swallowed up of death. Geo. Francis Train must stand aside, his pitiless despotism being destroyed. Having accomplished these mighty works, the society can "stretch forth its arm gloriously" to quiet the turbid spirits of the pedregal. Glory Hallelujah! For the day of Ponce Commissions hath passed, and soon across the continent will come the familiar cry of the doughty McC.: "I think with sufficient reinforcements I can give battle and defeat the enemy."

One of the most remarkable defaulters of this decade is Samuel E. Rankin, State Treasurer of Iowa, and Treasurer of the Agricultural College. This gentleman was elected Treasurer of the College in 1868, giving a bond of $75,000. He was re-elected in 1869, but no bond was required. In 1870, he was again elected, this time giving a bond just before his term expired. In 1871 he was re-elected, and no bond was required on his fourth term. In 1870 his defalcations were first discovered. In 1871 the "cupboard was bare" to the tune of $37,000. He was elected for the last time upon giving a bond to cover his past defalcations, and to furnish security for the future. Mr. Rankin's method of filling this obligation was original, as well as effective. The State treasury cancelled the College fund defalcation. About this time the Legislature appropriated $38,000 to the College. Mr. R. credited the College with this amount, but placed the money in the State Treasury. And so he gyrated between the College and the State vaults, until by the imprudent action of the trustees, he gyrated out of office with an indebtedness of $38,401 46.

The Irish University bill has been defeated by a very small majority, and the Gladstone Ministry retires, to give place to the Premier who was once ousted by a far more decisive vote. Upon this measure the Cabinet rested its claims to the Queen's service. Gladstone has fought nobly against an immense pressure of public sentiment. There was the unreasoning prejudice against the Geneva arbitration excited in the English masses by the "ouns," at whose head stood Disraeli, bearing always in his bosom the mortification of his Waterloo. But the English Premier is the most elastic of all politicians. He never dies from the seeming disgrace of defeat. It it so, too, in France and Spain. The Cortes adopts a resolution of distrust; Senor Castelar drops his portfolio; but never in anger. A seat in the Cortes is vacant, Senor Castelar secures that seat, and within a year, by sheer force of persistency, he is again called to the Portfolio of State. Verily, the vicissitudes of European politics are past the comprehension of feeble democracy.

The recent city election in Sacramento, of which our dispatches have made mention for several days past was a spirited fight between the Central Pacific Railroad Co. and the anti-Monopolists, and it was made on a square railroad issue. We read a day or two since, that Leland Stanford and Hopkins visited Sacramento to address the railroad employes on the issues of the election. The content seems to hinge on this point: the railroad company wants the entire water front of the city, and the Council were nearly equally divided on the question. So the election of this one trustee became a matter of considerable moment. The opposition to the Central Pacific was lead by the Union—well-know as a persistent enemy of all monopolies.

The Springfield Republican of a recent date published the poem over which the dilettanti of the Bulletin line wrought himself into a divine frenzy of "writin'." The Republican of February 21st, says: "Of course it was reckless,—the re-publication of 'Beautiful Snow' in our columns with a gushing introduction about the fallen woman who wrote it. It has set the whole country in arms on various sides of the 'Beautiful Snow' question, and we knew it would. But we were reckless. We thought a temporary blockade of the Credit Mobilier excitement in 'Beautiful Snow' would have a cooling effect." "At all events, it is a remarkable poem and it is rather wonderful that good poetry is so scarce when so many persons have considered themselves capable of writing it." It is from this article in the Springfield paper that the fat contributor of the Bulletin takes his defense of "the fallen woman who went upon the stage against the will of her husband." The harmony of thought between our contemporary and the Atlantic Monthly has saddled the "Beautiful Snow" on this unfortunate woman. There let it rest forever, undisturbed by indignant Watson or outraged Farnon. For all the poignant grief this masterstroke of the adipose iconoclast has cost us, we have the compensating reflection that amid the sterner duties of the Custom House he yet can find time to delve in the columns of a Springfield journal for authority to justify his remarkable gallantry to the "fallen woman." As we have remarked, we are demolished. Good-bye, Watson!

Late Eastern advices say it is probable that proceedings will be commenced in the United States against General Fremont for fraudulent practices. A few days since we gave a statement of the enormous swindle whereby the bonds of the Memphis and El Paso Railroad Co. were put on the Paris Bourse. The suit in France is against General Fremont and M. M. Bollon, Probst, Pardos, Lissynal and Poppinet. It is charged, as we have before explained, that Probst and others forged a sealed certificate on the New York Stock Exchange, on the strength of which the bonds were taken by Parisian capitalists. General Fremont protests with emphasis that he was not in the least acquainted with the means employed to place the bonds on the Paris market. He is preparing a written defence.

Our morning dispatches announce the election of Geo. S. Boutwell to the United States Senate. The election is a good one. Mr. Boutwell has filled many important places of public trust, and in all of them he has been distinguished for his firmness of purpose and strict integrity. While the defeat of Mr. Dawes may be a sore disappointment to many, it is at least a source of satisfaction to know that his successful competitor will maintain the high standard of Massachusetts statesmanship. Our dispatches also announce that Judge Richardson, hitherto Assistant United States Treasurer, will in all probability succeed Mr. Boutwell in the department vacated by the elevation of the latter gentleman.

The Postmaster-General insists that double postage should be collected on newspapers where the package is not prepaid. He contends that the decision of the Attorney-General referred only to letters. Mr. Creswell is a cute genius, for the ground of the decion referred to was this: that the postal law fixes the rate of letter postage definitely, and that Postmasters have no legal authority to support them in the collection of additional postage. This opinion was given on a question submitted by Mr. Creswell. Of course the case of the newspaper is exactly like that of the letter, since the rate of postage is fixed in both.

At a banquet, March 5th, Mr. Gladstone referred to his possible defeat on the Irish University bill, in these words: "When the hour for the dissolution of the Ministry arrives, we will be ready to retire, but will not heedlessly abandon our posts."

The Springfield Republican speaking of the reception of the Poland Committee's report, wickedly says: "The procession will positively start next Tuesday——scapegoats in advance."

Salmeron, Minister of Justice, has introduced in the Spanish Cortes, a bill providing for the abolition of capital punishment.

Do We Live in a Temporate Zone.

This is a question of considerable interest just now, in view of the terrific storms of snow which have swept over the Northern portion of the United States. The pertinence of the inquiry is enhanced by reading in an Eastern journal the letter of a correspondent which says that while the fearful drifts were burying their scores of victims in the Northwest, the writer was sitting at an open window at St. Petersburg, clothed in the ordinary garments of early winter. Mr. George A. Shove, in the Atlantic Monthly for March, contributes the following interesting paragraphs under the subject of 'Life under Glass:"

It would seem as if the old geographers were using language in a Pickwickian sense when they marked this region of the globe as being in a temperate zone. Probably many a youth has wondered, as he sat shivering on the back seat of an old-fashioned New England school house, during a wintry northwester, what sort of a zone an intemperate zone must be, if the one in which his lot was cast could be called temperate. A climate can hardly be considered remarkable for temperateness which swings around the circle, from ultra tropical heat in July almost to the intense cold of the planetary spaces in January—a range, in some years, of more than a hundred and twenty degrees of Fahrenheit's scale. Nearly sixty people have been sun struck in New York city during a single midsummer's day, while a few months later the daily journals would, perhaps, contain accounts of deaths by freezing, either in the city or on board of vessels off the coast. Except during a part of the autumn, and a few days or weeks at other seasons, extremes would seem to be the normal condition of our capricious climate—extremes not only of temperature, but of the hygrometric state of the atmosphere. As a general rule, the crops of the much-enduring farmer or gardener are either drowned in Alaskan floods of rains or withered under a Coloradan drought.

A region liable to such sudden alterations of temperature is the congenial habitat of consumption, which in some localities, is the cause of one-fourth of the mortality. It is one of the great battle grounds of the thermal and frigid zones; now one prevails, now the other, in this disputed territory, where the truces between the contending powers are generally of brief duration. As on other battle fields, the contention is disastrous in its consequences to the peaceful inhabitants. Sometimes, in winter or in spring, the temperature falls fifty or more degrees in less than as many hours. The buds of the hardiest vines and fruit trees are destroyed by the piercing cold, which also extends its fatal effects to mankind. The bills of mortality always show an increase in the number of deaths at such periods, particularly among the aged.

General Fry, who died in San Fancisco March 5th, at the age of sixty years, served with distinction in the Mexican war, commanding a regiment at Buena Vista and other battles. He was a graduate of West Point, but left the army in 1850 for the study of medicine, which he practiced before and after the Mexican war, at Louisville, Ky. Some years prior to the rebellion he re-entered the army, serving in Mexico. During the rebellion he served as Acting Paymaster-General at Washington, until December 10, 1862, and as Chief Paymaster of the District of Washington from February 4, 1863, to July 15, 1862, when he came to San Francisco.

A fine bay, with safe anchorage, has been discovered in the Hermit group of islands, 50 miles from Cape Horn. The harbor is so much superior to that of the Falkland isles that the discovery will seriously affect the British settlements there.

The Mississippi Legislature has passed a bill making a negro just as good as a white man at hotels, on railroad trains, or anywhere else, and pondering the man who opposes and wrongs him on account of his color liable to about $500 fine and one year's imprisonment.

The homeopathic doctors who appealed to the Massachusetts Supreme Court for an injunction to restrain the Massachusetts Medical Society from expelling them from that body, have met with an adverse decision, the Court holding that the Medical Society has the right to enforce its own rules.

A train from Baltimore on the North Central Pennsylvania railroad was wrecked twelve miles south of Harrisburg on March 6th, by a broken rail. Two passenger cars were thrown from the track—one against the hill, the other down an embankment. The stoves fell through the floors into the snow, thus preventing the wreck from taking fire. Three or four passengers were hurt; none seriously, except a man who had a rib broken.

The jury in the Evans case (the Pennsylvania State Fund case), returned a verdict in favor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania on the first count, in the sum of $140,763 53; that the defendant was not an officer or professional agent, but received the money sent as special agent appointed by the Governor, pursuant to joint resolution passed March 22. The second and third counts of the indictments are not supported. It is generally supposed that the Commonwealth will appeal.

The business portion of Blossburg, Pa., was burned on the 6th of March. The fire originated in the cellar of the fancy store of May & Silvermean; cause unknown. Thirty-five buildings, containing about forty five places of business, nearly the entire business portion of the town, were destroyed. Many buildings were occupied above the first floor by tenants. No one was injured. The loss will undoubtedly reach $100,000; insurance, $60,000. The buildings were on the main street, both sides of which are in ashes.

General Fremont, who is at present in New York, has prepared a written defense in the matter of the proceedings in Paris concerning the El Paso bond sales. He denies all guilty knowledge of fraudulent practices. The official action in France is against Fremont and Messrs. Bollon, Probst, Pardos, Lissynal and Poppinet, and the accusation rests upon a forgery by Probst and others of a certificate of the New York Stock Exchange, whereby the bonds of the El Paso Company were admitted to the Paris Bourse. It is probable proceedings may be commenced against Fremont in this country.

SOUTH AMERICAN NEWS.

The Panama Star and Herald of February 4th contains the following:

In one of the meadows in the neighborhood of Jirardot was found an immense snake, eighteen meters long and two feet in circumference, which was busy swallowing a deer, and adds the Aviso No. 4, of Antioquia, it could break a man over with the force of its lungs.

We swallow that sixty foot Python, deer and all. Here's another:

A wild white man has been found in the forests of Amalfi, in Antioquia, with the body all covered with hair. He refused bread and cigars, saying all his wants were supplied from heaven.

This is one of the New York murderers, probably: a clear case of emotional insanity, escaped, perhaps, from some anti-tobacco convention.

Valparaiso advices of January 14th say that by a late decree, the President of Bolivia has prohibited the employment, in future, of such terms as "Your Honor," "Your Excellency," etc., when any of the functionaries of the Republic are addressed.

Lima dates of January 27th say:

The important line of railroad connecting the rich wine growing and agricultural district of Moquegua with the port of Ilo has been delivered over to the Government by Mr. Meiggs, and the Commission appointed to receive it made a most satisfactory report regarding the excellent manner in which the work has been constructed. It is now open to the public, and the first benefit is already apparent—the notable increase in the value of the landed property in its neighborhood.

The railways from Arequipa to the large interior cities of Cuzco and Puno are being pushed forward with much energy.

The sanitary condition of Callao remains about the same, but in Lima the number of those attacked by the epidemic is daily increasing.

With the object of working the coal mines which exist in Tumbez, a company has been formed in Arequipa.

From Chile:

The fine church of Sacaba was burned on the 14th of December last. The incendio was caused by the sacristan leaving a lighted wax candle on the altar, while he went to drink chicha. The door of the church had to be broken open, as the said sacristan could not be found. Neither the sacrament nor any of the images could be saved; all the objects of devotion of the faithful, the custodia, sacred vessels, etc., fell a prey to the devouring flames.

The St. Louis Democrat must have been reading the story of the Memphis man who went into the Mayor's office a few days since and requested leave to inspect the volume which contained the names of candidates for office. When the smiling clerk asked him what office he was running for, this degenerate son of Adam replied, "Wall, I dunno; thought I'd look over and go for any vacancy that might turn up. I'm beastly fond of ornithology!" But there's a deal of sound sense in what the Democrat says:

The fact is, the male adults of America are gradually coming to the conclusion that in return for the obedience of a citizen the Government owes to each one of them a public office. The number of men who are willing to make an honest living is decreasing year by year; and the class who live on taxes is becoming numerically equal to the class who pay the taxes. The first duty of all legislative bodies seems to be to increase the number of public places and yet there is no likelihood of ever reducing the proportion of candidates to offices. We shall always have, we suppose, as Mr. Lincoln wound say, forty pegs for every hole.

Latest advices from Acapulco are to the following effect:

The war commenced by the Government against General Lozada, is looked upon by the aborigines with a great deal of interest, being considered a war of races. Alvarez himself has much of the Indian blood, and by far the majority of the population belong to that race.

General Diego Alvarez has been elected Governor of the State of Guerrero, and the Arec and Jimenez parties were defeated, which will quell, for the present, the political disturbances, pacifying the State after years of petty revolutions.

Now and valuable mines have been discovered in that State, and if capital could only be raised to work them, Acapulco might yet get a new start.

THURSDAY MORNING MARCH 13 1873

CITY.

INCORPORATED.—Articles of incorporation were filed in the County Clerk's office yesterday of the Coos Bay Coquille Canal and Transportation Company. The incorporators are H W Scott, A P Dennison J N Dolph and F F Russell. The duration of the corporation from the date of the filing of the articles is 99 years. Capital stock is fixed at $1 200 000 number of shares, 12 000, amount of each share $100. The principal office of the corporation will be located in Portland.

The enterprise pursuit and occupation of the corporation is as follows. Digging constructing, maintaining and operating a canal from the waters of Coos Bay, at the head of the Isthmus Slough, to the Coquille river connecting the navigable waters of the river and Bay also, to erect dock, store warehouse and wharves to build all kinds of boats and collect toll on the same to purchase and use water rights, stone quarries, mineral ledges, coal mines, timber lands in the counties of Coos, Curry and Douglas counties to erect and operate saw and flouring mills, manufacturing establishments and generally do and perform all other acts and things connected with, or necessary to be done in carrying into effect the foregoing enprises.

BAILING A POND.—We were reminded yesterday of the Irishman who proposed to measure the water of the Atlantic ocean with a quart pot by observing two Celestials busily engaged in bailing out a small pond. Since the subsidence of the rain storm the long excavation alongside the City Stables has been left filled with water. Time is money, according to the old adage, and the proprietors of the stable are desirous of moving over the building as soon as possible. While the excavation remains filled with water the men can not prepare the foundation or change the location of the building. To wait for the water to disappear by the slow process of evaporation or to soak off through the soil, would require too much time. Yesterday two hastily constructed troughs were provided leading from the water's edge to the gutter at the side of the street. Two China men were employed and set to work to bail out the artificial pond. They plied their buckets lively and by evening succeeded in materially lessening the quantity of water. To day will enable them to complete the job.

TRYING THE WHISTLE.—Many persons were puzzled yesterday afternoon to account for the repeated whistling of a boat down towards the lower end of the city. The sound of the whistle very closely resembled that of the steamer E N Cooke, and everyone who noticed the repeated whistling supposed it came from that steamer. Every few minutes the noise would come with an annoying frequency until many conjectures were indulged in as to the cause. A great many supposed that either the Captain or some of the men of the Cooke had gone ashore, and were remaining behind time and the whistling was to warn them. Attracted by curiosity we sallied forth to learn the cause. On arriving at the foot of E street, the mystery was speedily solved. It seems that steam was raised on board the steamer Gen Grover, and the machinists were arranging the whistle, and in order to be able to give it the proper tone the steam was turned on many times to test it.

DISCOVERY OF LIME STONE.—Specimens of what was supposed to be silver bearing rock, were sent down a few days since to the Dalles, having been discovered in considerable quantities in that vicinity. Mr Fisk tested the stone and found that it contained not even the smallest per centage of silver, but discovered, on subjecting it to intense heat, that it made an excellent article of lime. We are not apprised of the exact locality of the stone, but if it is accessible to navigation, and can be found in sufficient quantities to make the burning of lime an object, men of enterprise would not find a safer investment for capital. Col Dennison, we learn, brought in from Southern Oregon, a few days ago, a small quantity of lime-stone rock to be tested. The stone was discovered a short time since in Douglas county, with a few miles of the line of the railroad. Why should the people send abroad for lime when a splendid article can be made in the State?

RUNAWAY.—A short but eventful runaway occurred yesterday, which culminated in a driver getting hurled headlong to the pavement. A gentleman was driving down First street about ten o'clock at a rapid gait. At the intersection of Oak a fire engine was in full blast pumping out the cistern. The horse began to shy off, and the driver thinking to prevent a fright, turned the animal down Oak towards Front street. But the horse ran too near the corner, one fore wheel struck the curbstone which precipitated the driver headlong to the ground. The mud at the place was several inches deep which broke the force of the fall, but rendered the driver a woe begone sight to look upon. The left his arm and shoulder was considerably bruised. The horse was caught after running a short distance. The driver was not seriously hurt and was able to resume work after a few hours.

LOVELY.—After the incessant rains of the last three weeks, yesterday dawned on this lower world with a glorious loveliness, refreshing to the mind and reviving to the soul. Old Sol shed his most effulgent beams down upon the smiling landscape, the cloudless sky assumed its deepest cerulean hue, everybody ceased to look cross, while everything was lovely and the goose dangled high. People delighted to linger about the doors, and along the sunniest sides of the streets, to bask like buzzards in the warm rays. The stray beams were treasures too valuable to be lost, and every one endeavored to collect his or her share. At last has his serene Highness, the clerk of the weather, cast aside his habitual frown and wreathed his phiz in the most bland of smiles. Really, a few more days like yesterday will cause us all to forget past miseries in the enjoyment of present favors.

RUNAWAYS.—The horse attached to a wagon belonging to E. Lawson, in which a quantity of scrap iron was being conveyed to the store of Mr Lawson, got his "dander up" shortly after leaving the Oregon Iron Works yesterday afternoon, and made off down Front street. Result, a demolished wagon and a general distribution of old iron. No further damage. During Wednesday afternoon a span of horses, with an attachment in the shape of a large wagon, became frightened at some object while standing opposite Goddard's stable and made a dash down Morrison street, caroming on their way the awning in front of some small houses near the rear of the stable, when they were caught and returned to their place. Later in the day they attempted the runaway dodge again, but parties present prevented the little trip.

ST PATRICK'S DAY.—Our Irish fellow citizens propose celebrating the day in an appropriate manner. By reference to the announcements in another column it will be seen that the different Irish societies, the military and the Hibernian Society will take part in the grand parade, which has been arranged so as to afford persons in all parts of the city an opportunity to witness the procession. Upon the arrival of the procession at St Mary's Academy the pupils of the school will perform musical and instrumental exercises. Upon reaching Oro Fino Hall the oration will be delivered by S J McCormick, Esq., and when the marchers concluded dinner will be in order. With pleasant weather everything promises well for a grand and glorious celebration of St. Patrick's day.

PASSENGER LIST.—The steamer Oriflamme, which sailed from this port for San Francisco last evening carried away the following passengers:

L C Putnam wife and two children, R Cohn, S Freidman, W H Higgins and wife, A Waldman, G B Dewey, A B Grossman, D F Dale, N Goodman, W F Burke, M Kane, Andrew Johnson, P C Harper, A Wheeler, Miss Jessie Wilson, T H Giordon, W Jackson and son, Henry Voory, C W Woodward, Wm Scott, I Bloom, S F Sifford, J A Hope, S Barclay, Wm Maddon, Mrs L G Caroth, Mrs P Bailey, F M Carlock wife and infant, J Finnamore, J Carroll and wife, Mrs J B Montgomery, W F & Co's Messenger and 26 in the steerage.

THE WEDDING.—A number of the friends of B Goldsmith, Esq., assembled at the residence of that gentleman on Tuesday evening, the occasion of the tenth anniversary of the marriage of Mr and Mrs. Goldsmith. The ware of all descriptions were presented by a number of Mr Goldsmith's friends, and the evening was passed pleasantly in social intercourse. On the same evening the tenth anniversary of the marriage of Mr and Mrs. General Saxton occurred, but the occasion was not observed, although a number of friends sent to the rooms of the General at the St Charles a few articles in the shape of the ware.

Patent self rolling shades, fine oil painted shades, lace curtains and cornices. Work done reasonably and satisfactory at Paul Richter's.

VISIT IN MASKS.—To day being the the feast of Purim among our Hebrew citizens it is customary with the young people—both male and female—to disguise themselves with masks and visit different families this evening. A party consisting of half a dozen to thirty persons attire themselves in grotesque costumes and call on their various friends relatives and acquaintances in a body. No notification is given the persons on whom it is proposed to call and the visit therefore is a matter of much surprise. Those surprise calls are frequently indulged in to a late hour of the night and is the occasion of great pleasure and merriment to the lasses and lads.

HOT HEAT.—A small boy while attempting to climb over the fence surrounding the plaza last evening was severely hurt. He succeeded in getting on top of the pickets, but in his efforts to descend on the other side his trowsers caught and he hung with his head downward. The weight caused the cloth to give way and the little fellow came tumbling down on his head. His mouth was severely cut and his face bruised by the force of the fall. His loud and bitter cries attracted the notice of a gentleman who happened to be passing at the time. He took the boy to his home in the upper part of the city and had his injuries attended to.

THE FEAST OF PURIM.—Ever since the reign of the Persian King Ahasuerus the Hebrews throughout the world celebrate the festival of Purim which occurs to day. This day corresponds with the 14th day of the Hebrew month Adar and the festival commemorates the almost miraculous salvation of their people and the destruction of their enemies Mordecai and Esther, according to the Biblical history. Introduced the festival as a day of entertainment and joy, which is still kept up. Alms are sent to the poor, and on last evening the Megillah (Book of Esther) was read in the several Synagogues.

NOT OVER THE TRACK.—Our reference to the water being over the railroad track between Oregon City and the Clackamas, yesterday morning was based on a note from Oregon City saying that it was over the bottom and still rising and likely to be over the track. The latest information from that direction says, had the rise continued the water would have covered the track yesterday.

DUE—ON THE WAY.—The bark Wolfpot sailed from San Francisco for this port on Tuesday last, with a large assorted cargo. The bark Free Trade sailed sometime ago for this port, and is overdue here. The three schooners H I Tucker, Parallel and Marietta are all on the way. The two former vessels are due and can be expected at any time.

ON THE WHARF.—Early yesterday morning the water began to make its appearance on the floor of the lower wharf of the O S N Co. At present writing the water had not attained a sufficient height to interfere with the receipt or discharge of freight from the story. The rise of a few more inches will necessitate a removal to the upper wharf.

LINED WITH SPECTATORS.—The sidewalk between Alder and Morrison streets, on Front, was thronged the greater portion of yesterday with spectators watching the progress of the pile driving which was pronounced for the new wharf. The new wharf at that point will be completed in the course of a few months.

STEAM UP.—For the first time, steam was raised in the boiler on the Gen Grover. The steam connections with the engines have not yet been attached, but everything will be in running condition in a few days. From appearances the craft will be ready to make the trial trip by the middle of next week.

IN PROGRESS.—The entire day was consumed yesterday in the U S Circuit Court in the trial of Walter S Kitchen, indicted for the robbery of the United States mail. A number of witnesses were examined, but the case will probably require another day to conclude the testimony.

PICTURES SOLD.—Mr H Theisen purchased yesterday, at private sale, the two pictures painted by Mr J H Garrigan—"Tooth Bridge" and "The Middle Landing," both views on the Columbia river. Each picture is about 3x5 feet.

A Ehman builds neat and substantial cottage houses, hard finished, for $650. Prices for story and a half and two story houses reasonable in proportion. Plans of houses on hand. Inquire at 103 First street, opposite postoffice.

PUMPING OUT.—Multnomah Engine No 2 was engaged yesterday forenoon in pumping out the cistern at the intersection of Oak and First streets.

Remember the Noon Day Prayer Meetings at the rooms of the Y M C A, corner of Stark and First street, from 12 to 1 o'clock.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

Several vessels due.

Steamer off on time.

Only two vessels in port at present.

Nothing further of the George S Wright received.

"Splendid weather," was the universal remark yesterday.

Pile driving will be commenced to day at Carter's wharf.

Ladies turned out in their best yesterday, and in numbers.

A large quantity of eggs came down from up country by express.

The programme of the manner in which our Irish citizens proposing to celebrate St. Patrick's day is published.

The last steamer brought several cases of clothing for Joseph Kohn & Co., the quality of which is really ahead of anything of that kind ever brought to the city.

Pictures went off like "hot cakes" at the sale yesterday, and at exceedingly good figures. Mr Bourn will offer more to day. For further information read advertisement.

The windows of George A Pease's Pacific shoe store have been fitted up in gay style. The salesman stands on which are placed various styles of foot gear are models of neatness.

PERSONAL.

Hon Dean Blanchard, of Rainier, is in the city.

Hon T R Cornelius was at the Occidental last evening.

C H Woodard, Esq, has gone on a visit to friends in the States.

I R Moores Esq, is again on his feet and will be found in his office as usual.

A L Stinson, Esq, President of the Beaver Hosiery Co and Hon Jacob Conser, are in the city.

Mr Stephen Maybell the "poet laborer" of Oregon, took his departure on the Oriflamme last evening. He goes to California where he will remain some time before leaving for the East.

Mr W Jackson left for San Francisco by the steamer with his son Walter, who is in delicate health. The young man will leave for some place in California, where he hopes to recover his health.

There were over eighty of these notches. That the old man was permitted to die in his bed instead of on the gallows is a proof of the forbearance of the government.

A great many years ago before ice in the summer season had come to be a necessity but was just beginning to be housed up and used in the large cities as a luxury, a good deacon from a rural Connecticut town came to New York to celebrate the Fourth of July. It was his misfortune to celebrate a little too much—he got intoxicated. News thereof followed him home, and he was called up before the church for discipline. The deacon confessed his fault. He said the day was hot, and he went into a hotel bar room where there was a bowl of punch, and the lemons and the ice looked so cool and inviting he drank some. It tasted so good and the ice he freshed him so much that he took some more, and finally he took so much that, he was ashamed to say, he became intoxicated. He sat down. There was a moment's hush and then an angular brother at the rear of the meeting rose and said "I am satisfied about the deacon's explanation about his getting drunk. He confesses it and says he's sorry. That's all right. Anybody is liable to that. But when the deacon comes into this pre meetin' and talks about seeing ice in July, I go for having him jerked up for lying.

The Shield of Health

Debility opens the door to disease. Nor is this all. When the door has been opened and the terrible intruder has entered physical prostration renders its progress to the citadel of life comparatively easy. Therefore bar the door and if possible keep it barred, or if the enemy has already secured a foothold, rally the strength of the system and assist nature to drive out the foe of health and life. The nations of doing this is within every one's reach. Brace up the physical with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters which throw into motion all the organs of the body and unwholesome matter which is forming the floor of dissolution and mix will assail in vain the living forts so that is thus protected. It may laugh to scorn. But if the present contemplated measure has been neglected the seeds of disease may be destroyed by the same potent vegetable agent that would if taken earlier have prevented their gaining an entrance into the system. The stimulating invigorating regulating and purifying properties of this vital elixir render it a most formidable antagonist of all debilitating disorders. Its rapidity and certainty with which it vanquishes fever and ague, rheumatism, bilious colic indigestion and nervous complaints in due in a small degree to the strength it imparts to the muscular fibre the nerves and the membrane which line the stomach and the bowels. It may be safely said that a course of the Bitters commenced now will be a sure protection against most of the complaints incident to the season.

PLANTATION BITTERS!
S. T.—1860—X.

This wonderful vegetable restorative is the sheet-anchor of the feeble and debilitated. As a tonic and cordial for the aged and languid it has no equal among stomachics. As a remedy for the nervous, weakness to which women are especially subject, it is superseding every other stimulant. In all climates, tropical, temperate or frigid, it acts as a specific in every species of disorder which undermines the bodily strength and breaks down the animal spirits.

ON FINDING A WATCHMAN SOUND ASLEEP AT MIDNIGHT ON MY DOOR STEPS.

How sleep the brave who sink to rest,
By all the city rascals blest!
When Night, with snowy Dakota cold,
Returns to freeze the watery mould,
Sha these shall meet a sounder bed
Than Fancy's feet have ever trod.

By fire-y hands our knell is rung,
By forms unseen our locks are sprung;
Thero burglars come—black, white and gray—
To bless the steps that wrap their clay,
While watchmen do a white repair,
And dwell, like sleeping hermits, there

Of the Dying.

The excitement which the loss of the Northfleet caused in England still continues to show itself in various characteristic ways. The steamer, which escaped like a conscious murderer, in the confusion and darkness, has been vindictively watched for in every port in Europe, the inefficient means of escape provided on emigrant ships is blamed, the inadequate signal system, etc. Contributions for the few remaining victims pour in from every quarter, from the Queen to the half starved miners. That three hundred souls should thus be lost in a calm sea, within sight of the English coast, surrounded by a dozen vessels, within easy hearing and reach of a crowded English roadstead, would be enough to account for the thrill of universal horror, and the eagerness with which the whole nation has risen to repair the injury as far as practicable, were it not that catastrophes just as general and terrible have occurred and died out of notice in a day.

But there was a single point of human interest in this ship as it went down, which made all nations akin as they looked at it. A multitude of deaths of unknown men and women in, after all, only a ghastly vague fact, unemotional as the sum total of a toll of mortality. But this Captain Knowles, wakened out of his sleep to find the open sea yawning beneath, and these 400 souls dependent upon him, on the instant cool, steady, sagacious, seeing that death was inevitable, and standing on its edge to choose out the weakest and most helpless to be saved—there is a real live man whom we would fain claim as the brother of us all. There is much said nowadays of the corruption of society; when our political leaders take bribes we are told that chicanery and money and love of sham show control the majority of lives; yet sometimes Death, from among us, takes some commonplace fellow like this ship's captain, by the throat and bids him justify his right to have lived; and the man takes his footing upon his plain daily duty, and doing that, chooses so to be lost in the eternal silence. But how the whole world is stirred as he goes out! How in every country in the last fortnight men's hearts have beaten higher, and the tears come to women's eyes looking at the figure of this Knowles on the edge of his sinking ship; how we had listened to hear his last words before the sea covered him; to know something more of the man. Cleopatra puts on her crown to make a tragic ending. "What's brave, what's noble, let's do it after the high Roman fashion, and make Death proud to take us!" "The Captain was the only quiet man on board," said one of the survivors; "he was about thirty years old, and had been married six months. He kept the crew back with a pistol in one hand, from the boats, and helped the women and children in with the other. Some called to him to tie himself to a spar, but he went on lifting in the women. He gave his wife to the boatswain in one of the boats. 'Take care of her, bosun,' he said; 'I will never see you again, dear girl.' Mrs. Knowles was a young thing, very much of a child. She wanted to go back on deck and die with her husband, but we held her."

While we look through the night at the ship going down with this man at his post on her, other remembrances come back to us, of Robert Shaw, "buried in a pit with his niggers;" of the engineer Kealey lying dead at the bottom of the river, and the train he had saved safe at the other side; and, dearer than all, of another ship that sank in the British Channel not many years ago. There was part of an infantry regiment on board, returning after a five years' absence from India. "When it was found that the vessel was sinking, and that the boats were insufficient to hold the women and children, the Colonel, to prevent confusion, marshaled his men in rank on deck. They obeyed, and presented arms." And so, almost within sight of the home they had not seen for five years, foot to foot and shoulder to shoulder, silent and immovable, as though ready to charge upon the foe, they went down.

There are men whose lives are clad with great deeds or words as with a royal garment; but these were homely and common-place, doing the task of every day, after no high Roman fashion, but quietly and steadily. Attempting and achieving no more than this, they passed through the great dark portal which never opens twice for any man, but when it has closed behind them it seems to us as though a King had gone out from among us.—N. Y. Tribune.

WHERE DID THE RICH MAN GO?—Little Johnny was preparing for Sunday school, situated some distance away when his mother saw one of her neighbors approaching in his vehicle. This neighbor, by the way, was called "the Rich Man," being both wealthy, kind-hearted, and liberal to the poor. Johnny ran out and the rich man took him into his vehicle, as he was going right past the Sunday school. It was a very hot day and so Johnny took off his shoes and stockings to keep himself cool. When they arrived the exercises had already begun, and as the man was going to a church about a mile beyond, and he agreed to call for Johnny on his return, he concluded not to put on his shoes and stockings again, but leave them in the vehicle. So he tripped lightly into school and the man drove away toward church.

His teacher was just hearing the lesson, which by the by, Johnny was not acquainted with, which was the fate of the rich man and Lazarus. Soon after Johnny took his seat, it came to his turn to answer a question.

"Johnny, can you tell me where the rich man went?"

"He went to the Baptist meeting," replied the little lad, thinking only of his late companion.

"No, no my son, the rich man went to hell," said the teacher, with great impressiveness, while the other scholars were tittering with laughter.

"Did he," exclaimed the lad, in all honesty. "Then he has taken my shoes and stockings with him," and up he jumped and seizing his hat, he put out of the school room and down the road to overtake the rich man, and recover his property.

PLUCK.—A CAPITAL FABLE.—The hopelessness of any one's accomplishing anything without pluck is illustrated by an old East Indian fable. A mouse that dwelt near the abode of a great magician, was kept in such constant distress by its fear of a cat that the magician taking pity on it, turned it into a cat itself. Immediately it began to suffer from its fear of a dog, so the magician turned it into a dog. Then it began to suffer from fear of a tiger, and the magician turned it into a tiger. Then it began to suffer from its fear of huntsmen, and the magician in disgust said, "Be a mouse again. As you have only the heart of a mouse, it is impossible to help you by giving you the body of a nobler animal." It is the same with a mouse-hearted man. He may be clothed with the powers and placed in the position of brave men, but he will always act like a mouse; and public opinion is usually the great magician that finally says to such a person, "Go back to your obscurity again. You have only the heart of a mouse, and it is useless to try to make a lion of you."

SIGNS OF DEATH.—The Academy of Sciences, of Paris, in 1870 offered a prize of twenty thousand francs for some simple and positive signs of death which any non-professional person could understand and apply. The most practical and satisfactory one given, (says the British Medical Press and Circular,) is mentioned in a late number of Virchow's Archiv. It depends upon the fact that no matter how profound the syncope, or how deathlike the person may appear, if the circulation continues, however feebly, the person is not dead. All that is necessary, therefore, is to tie a string firmly around the finger of the supposed corpse, if the blood circulates in the least, the whole finger from the string to the tip, will swell and generally turn a bluish red. This test is exceedingly simple and conclusive.

HOW A WOMAN CORNERS A HEN.—When a woman has a hen to drive into a coop she takes hold of her hoops with both hands, shakes them quietly toward the delinquent, and says, "Shoo, there." The hen takes one look at the object to convince herself it's a woman, and then stocks majestically into the coop, in perfect disgust of the sex. A man don't do that way. He goes out doors and says, "It is singular nobody in this house can drive a hen but myself," and picking up a stick of wood hurls it at the offending biped, and observes, "get in there, you thief." The hen immediately looses her reason and dashes to the opposite end of the yard. The man straightway dashes after her. She comes back again with her head down, her wings out, and followed by an assortment of stove-wood, fruit cans and coal clinkers, with a mash-pulling and very mad man in the rear. Then she skims up on the stoop and under the barn, and over a fence or two, and around the house, and back again to the coop, all the while talking as only an excited hen can talk, and all the while followed by things convenient for handling, and by a man whose coat is on the ground, and whose perspiration and profanity appear to have no limit. By this time the other hens have come out to take a hand in the debate, and help dodge the missiles—and then the man says every hen on the place shall boilsoil in the morning, and puts on his things and goes down street, and the woman down her hoops and has every one of those hens housed, and contented in two minutes, and the only sound heard on the premises is the hammering by the oldest boy of he mends the broken pickets.—Jamestown Notes.

There is a very plain spoken clergyman (the Rev. Mr. Emerson) at Gloucester, Massachusetts, and the way in which he talks to the dealers in fish is worthy of St. Peter himself. "How happens it," he said in a recent discourse, "that herrings caught on the coast of Maine become 'Labrador herring' on touching the hands of some Gloucester dealers? How does it happen, too, the bank codfish, worth five dollars a quintal, become transformed—changed in the twinkling of an eye—to George's fish, worth fifty cents more? Can any one here tell me how those wonderful transformations take place?" If this isn't plain, practical preaching, we should like to know what is. Perhaps the fish market isn't the only one which requires looking after. There are other trades in which queer things are done, if clergymen only knew enough to preach about them.

The Wool Trade for 1873.

Owing to the fact that the Wool crop for 1873 in our State will likely be not less than two million pounds surplus, it becomes a matter of interest to many to know what are the prospects of the market. At the close of last year in the wool centers at the East it was thought that the requirements of the various manufacturing establishments of the country in 1873 would much exceed those of the previous year, and from the fact of a very large loss of both raw material and manufactured goods, the apparently well grounded belief was that such a demand would be created as would at once, on the opening of the year's business, bring prices up to a comparatively good figure, and one at which they would rule steady for the season. But later advices indicate that in the foregoing view there was some mistake, as on the 15th of February, when the receipts from some foreign countries had begun in New York and Boston, and before the last fall's clip was exhausted, buyers began to operate with caution, principally on the authority of reports that the importations of this spring would largely exceed the average and enormous quantities of foreign being placed in the market, purchasers of large lots at current rates in February, when prices were high, could not compete with the more cautious manufacturers who had only bought supplies for their immediate wants at the high price and waited the expected decline. For a time, during the last half of February and the first few days in the present month, all things seemed to indicate the correctness of this last view of the market, but the latest information denotes a tendency to more inquiry and better prices rather than the predicted decline. Hence we are led to believe that the reports of excessive importations about to take place were perhaps not well founded, and that temporary dullness and slight drops in prices last month was owing to other causes, and did not justify the presumption that the same condition of things would exist for any considerable length of time. The supplies now in the hands of the principal manufacturing establishments at the East are not up to the average in quantity, and there is no assurance of any excessive or unusual import business, while the increase of factories and their products will outstrip the production of the raw material. Hence we conclude that prices for the latter must, in the nature of things, grow firmer and rule higher than at present.

The Grocery Trade.

It is claimed that this branch of trade, especially among retailers, will be prosperous beyond the average during the approaching season. This claim is based on the fact that the stocks of rice, sugars and provisions, which have been carried over, are much larger than usual, some asserting that without further importations of the two former, enough is already in the hands of dealers on this coast to supply the demand for three or four months. To these will be added immense quantities of rice from China and Honolulu, and sugar from China, Batavia, Manila, Honolulu, etc, long before the present supply is nearly exhausted. The same outlook exists in the matter of provisions, the hog crop of the western States being enormous, bringing about an urgent necessity of equally large exports from that section. Prices of all these articles must consequently drop and settle for a long time below the figures at which they have ruled during the past winter. This will give impetus to consumption and the gain will be so much the greater to the country store keeper and the retail grocers in the city as, if they sell cheaper they also buy cheaper, and their large aggregate of sales also insures them a large aggregate of profits. The increase of acreage under cultivation will necessitate an increase of the labor employed in cultivation, and will draw around the centers of trade additional consumers. Thus will the year probably witness an increase in the consumption per head, and the number of consumers. For these reasons it is claimed that we may reasonably anticipate a year of more than usual activity, both among wholesale and retail grocers, more especially the latter.

Shipping Intelligence.

The steamer Oriflamme sailed this evening from this port for San Francisco with a large cargo of produce, consisting of flour, bacon, apples, oats, wool, hides, etc.

The bark Gemini commences to receive wheat for Europe to-day at McCrakin's wharf.

The Oregonian will probably go down the river to-morrow, having about completed her cargo of flour for San Francisco.

The brig Orient is still discharging cargo at the wharf. She will soon go down the river to St. Helens to load with lumber for San Francisco.

The Penang still lies at Flanders' wharf. We are not able to state when she will proceed to Astoria.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 12.—Arrived—ship Great Admiral, New York, with merchandise to Howes & Co

Home Produce Market.

WHEAT—Until additional tonnage shall arrive, or at least until arrangements shall be known to have been effected from which such arrivals may be expected, we can not look for any great excitement in the market. At present there is but little offering, and transactions are limited to a few lots. The holders seem to be inclined to keep back until there shall be more life in the market, and exporters appear equally indifferent about issuing orders at current rates We quote $1 60 per cental as offering for good lots

FLOUR—Our market exhibits no material change, stocks on hand being no more than sufficient to supply the demand, which is rather more active. Prices in San Francisco seem to rule quite steady. Mail advices from New York indicate a scarcity of Pacific coast flour in that market. Imperial Mills, one of our choice Oregon brands, was the only offering This was quoted in the Tribune of the 25th ult. at $10 50 per bbl. Our local market is quiet, and quotable firm at the figures last given.

OATS—There has been some demand which is scarcely supplied. The schooner Oregonian, to sail for San Francisco to-morrow will take what is offered her. Prices, however, are but little, if any, higher—60 and 62 cents being offered quite freely.

FEED—The trade is brisk with jobbers, who are tolerably well supplied, as some of the mills have shut down temporarily. We quote bran at $16@18 per ton, shorts $20 50@$22, middlings, etc , $30@32.

HAY—The supply is rather less and rates are firm at former quotations.

APPLES—The receipts are fair and prices well maintained Quotations are furnished at 60@75 cents per box for common lots; choice, for shipping, 90 cents to $1 per box, boxes included in the latter, but not in the former.

POTATOES—The market is fully supplied and quotations are unchanged—from 35 to 45 cents per bushel, according to variety.

BUTTER—Very considerable lots of California make are in the market, and sell at figures equal to our best local brands of fresh dairy. It is jobbing at 40 cents per pound. Common Oregon is much lower;

EGGS—The receipts during the week, so far, have been rather large, but prices have shown no disposition to recede; but on the contrary are rather better, being now quotable at 22 cents per dozen in jobbers' paying prices

POULTRY—The market is not well supplied and the demand is fairly active Receipts of the week so far have been small and prices rule at $@$4 50 per dozen for common lots of chickens, while choice would doubtless command an advance
